National Geographic Little Kids First Big Book Of How (National Geographic Little Kids First Big Books)

Synopsis

This charming reference book takes a closer look at the things that surround kids every day and how they workâ”from cars to vacuum cleaners, animal bodies to humans. More than 100 colorful photos are paired with age-appropriate text featuring answers to questions like "How do chameleons change color?" "How do refrigerators stay cold?" and "How does my body heal?" This book inspires kids to be curious, ask questions, and explore the world around them.

Customer Reviews

"Esbaumâ”s text is funny, educational, and exciting enough to keep children turning those pages until the very end. This book is flexible and diverse enough to be used across multiple genres, including science, social skills courses, math, horticulture, ecology, oceanography, meteorology, or simply as a vibrant independent reading tool." -- New York Journal of Books
"Readers will have fun looking through this book and will also enjoy the many subject areas covered... I found it hard to put the book down as each page contained another interesting question. The design is very appealing with colorful pictures that follow the text." -- School Library Connection.

A native Midwesterner, JILL ESBAUM is a widely published author of books for young readers. She is a frequent school visitor and conference speaker. She teaches writing for children at the University of Iowa Summer Writing Festival and the Whispering Woods Picture Book Writing Retreat.

Great book .. Pics are awesome and questions are great! It's one of those books you sit and read with your child or pick it up open a page and learn something new everyday !

The Little Kids First Big Books are fantastic! I have purchased several. There is so much interesting information in them! I have them at my house to read to my grandsons when they visit, but I have had adults just sit and read them and they love them! I have even purchased a few for my father to have at his house when the great-grandchildren are there! He loves them too!

Our 4 year son really enjoys science, history and documentaries. We bought this for him as a Christmas present and he enjoys the short explanations. It keeps his interest and explains things at his level! We have even discovered a few things we didn't know! Perfect for those little scholars!

This book has become a favorite of my 3 1/2 year old. He likes the short explanations and the games at the end of the chapters. Highly recommended for those parents who child constantly ask "why" (incidentally, we also have the book of why for that reason).

This gift was for the first child of a young teacher! She was so excited that National Geographic has books focused on a child's learning she could hardly believe it. She is looking forward to having their other books for her child.

Great book for older kids, maybe 7 and up. Fun read!

Our family loves the entire series! Lots of great photos and interesting facts. Such a great way to pique children's curious minds. Please keep these coming, National Geographic!

This is a great book for the early grade school ages.
