Exalting Jesus In Exodus (Christ-Centered Exposition Commentary)

Synopsis

Edited by David Platt, Daniel L. Akin, and Tony Merida, this new commentary series, projected to be 48 volumes, takes a Christ-centered approach to expositing each book of the Bible. Rather than a verse-by-verse approach, the authors have crafted chapters that explain and apply key passages in their assigned Bible books. Readers will learn to see Christ in all aspects of Scripture, and they will be encouraged by the devotional nature of each exposition. Exalting Jesus in Exodus is written by Tony Merida.

Confidence in the truth and power of God's written Word should prompt pastors and teachers not only to say worthy things about the Bible, but also to preach and teach with faithfulness from the Bible. The Christ-Centered Exposition series helps us to do just that. Theologically rock solid, this series is a clear, practical, and useful guide to the kind of biblical exposition that will please the Lord and build up his church. Timothy George, Founding dean of Beeson Divinity School of Samford University and general editor of the Reformation Commentary on Scripture There is nothing more helpful to a pastor than resources that are biblically faithful and pastorally applicable. The Christ-Centered Exposition series hits the bull's eye. I highly recommend it for anyone who wants to understand the Scripture in its context in order to apply it in real life. Darrin Patrick, Lead pastor of The Journey, St. Louis, and co-author of For the City David Platt, Tony Akin, and Tony Merida have launched a series that will give a rising generation of pastors a tremendous resource for seeing how all the Scriptures prepare for and proclaim the ministry of Christ. The pastoral focus, the preaching tools and the redemptive insights make this a series of immediate use and great aid to pastors who want to equip their people to serve the Lord in the joyous power of the gospel — rather than in the vain pressures of servile dread or slavish fear. — Bryan Chapell President Emeritus, Covenant Seminary and Pastor, Grace Presbyterian Church

Tony Merida is one of the most dynamic preachers alive. — This commentary equips you to preach Exodus with focus on where the Holy Spirit always points: on Christ Jesus and the gospel of his kingdom. In a bush ablaze with glory, on a bloody doorpost, over a path through a wall of water, we see a familiar Galilean face and we hear a familiar Galilean voice: — “Come, follow Me” —. — Russell D. Moore, Ph.D. President, Ethics and Religious Liberty Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention

It’s one thing to know Bible stories; it’s another to know the story of the Bible. It’s one thing to be aware of the story’s many heroes; it’s another to have met the Hero himself. From the Old Testament that anticipates him, to the Gospels that manifest him, to the Book of Acts that proclaims him, to the Epistles that explain him, and to the Book of Revelation that tells of him coming again, your Bible is about Jesus. That’s why I love the vision of the Christ-Centered Exposition Commentary series. It models for preachers and teachers how to proclaim — with pastoral focus and exegetical care — the beauty of the gospel from every page of Scripture.

Matt Smethurst Associate Editor for The Gospel Coalition Few things are more important for faithful biblical interpretation than reading Scripture in light of its master narrative. The Christ-Centered Exposition series aims to do just that. — In a postmodern age, these commentaries provide pastors and lay people an invaluable resource that is unswervingly committed to the authority of Scripture and the centrality of the Gospel in the Bible’s storyline.

Dr. R. Albert Mohler Jr., President The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary —

Tony Merida is lead pastor of Imago Dei Church in Raleigh, North Carolina. He earned a Ph.D. in preaching from New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary and serves as associate professor of Preaching at Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary. His books include Faithful Preaching and Orphanology.

My favorite commentary on Exodus is — “Moses and the Gods of Egypt” — by Old Testament scholar and archaeologist John J. Davis. That book examines the text of Exodus in the light of archaeological and historical studies. I found Exalting Jesus in Exodus to be an outstanding complement to Professor Davis's accessible, academic work. Exalting Jesus in Exodus is exegetically sound, but it helps the pastor or teacher to move from the text to something applicable and shareable. From the beginning and its emphasis on an Exodus-shaped redemption to the end and these words, "If we had never heard the story of the exodus, this section would not really appear redundant. There would actually be suspense. Would God dwell among a sinful people in the tabernacle? These final chapters bring the book to a climactic finish," it lives up to its name.

Good commentary on Exodus. Big idea stuff. Wish there was a Christ-centered commentary that dealt with some of the harder sections. But given that, this is a great resource in helping preach Exodus.

Great commentary for preachers and teachers. A ton of research, creativity, insights, illustrative thoughts and life application. I've been amazed at the ability of Tony to connect the life and ministry of Jesus to the events of the Exodus.

Another great addition to the Christ-Centered commentary series. Really enjoy, appreciate and benefit from these expositions of Scripture.

This makes a potentially boring subject come alive and clarifies how the law reflects Christ. I will be purchasing more of these expositions.

Love this series, explains significance of each plague on Egypt, and areas pointing to Jesus.

Great commentary on exodus. Highly recommend. I will definitely purchase some of the other commentaries they have.

Awesome read
