Customer Reviews

• An increased emphasis on online feature writing includes a thoroughly revised examination of Internet-assisted research and looks at the burgeoning new market for freelance writers • Internet writing. Includes biographies of three new Pulitzer winners for feature writing • Andrea Elliott of The New York Times (2007), Gene Weingarten of The Washington Post Magazine (2008), and Lane DeGregory of the St. Petersburg Times (2009) • in Chapter 1. Examines a new Pulitzer Prize-winning multimedia feature article by Weingarten in Chapter 2. As with all writing examples in this book, articles and excerpts are accompanied by a careful analysis of the authors' writing techniques. Adds invaluable case-history comments and writing aids from several new Pulitzer winners • Lane DeGregory, in particular • in Chapters 5 and 6. Expands discussion about the multimedia journalism potential for the three

Pulitzer Prize-winning stories featured in Chapter 7, as well as an exploration of the multimedia used to present the 2006 Pulitzer Prize-winning feature story.

Everything I needed for my Communications class, but sometimes a little unclear.

This textbook has a lot of useful information in it... but it can still be utterly boring and useless since it is a textbook. I would say it is one of the better ones I was forced to use since reading it went somewhat quickly. Some of it is a little bit more common sense than the author lets on.

Thanks

Book arrived as described and quickly.
