The Unforgettable Hands Of The Cause: Times With The Chief Stewards Of Baha'u'llah's Embryonic World Commonwealth

Synopsis

Praise of THE UNFORGETTABLE HANDS OF THE CAUSE received personally by the author when the book was published originally as a print book by the Baha'i Publishing Trust of India: Red Grammer, Baha'i singer, songwriter, entertainer and father of "Honey, I'm Good" Andy Grammer wrote in the Goodreads website "This is one of my favorite books! It captures in sweet vignettes the profound love of these angels who were among us. Savor it one lovely paragraph at a time." "I simply love it! Started reading it immediately, and had a hard time putting it down. Your style is comfortable and very readable. I hope all readers will enjoy it as much as I do." Evelyn Mussachia, former secretary to a member of the Universal House of Justice: "I finished the book this morning and thought it was excellent. I was moved to tears!" Leann McGerty, Pacific Region Senior Archeologist "I got the book last night and jumped right in. I LOVE IT!!!!!! I have wept so much" "I'm really enjoying. It's dignified, sensitive, insightful, intelligent and evokes memories that will never be effaced from my heart." Dr Duane Troxel, Chief Executive Officer at Communications Corporation "I really love your book. Thank you for sharing all your precious moments with the Hands of the Cause. Truly inspiring!!" Nikan Mowlavi, Baha'i pioneer "This book is spiritually energizing." Patrick Roberts, Hawaii-based Bagpiper "Your wondrous book keeps me going day after day. I could not put it down and read and re-read it! We have all been yearning for spirit during this plan. Your book provided it." "Kathy Gilbert, New Zealand maidservant" Just the other day I saw your book on the Hands and can hardly put it down. Not only is it well-written but it is a delightful contribution on two levels. One is for those of us who knew some of those dear souls it is a fragrant reminiscence. For generations yet unborn it is an intimate glimpse into the lives of that remarkable cadre who selflessly saved the world from extinction, bridging, untarnished, sources of infallibility to the body of mankind. Again many thanks for this wonderful contribution to the Bahá'í cause... John Kolstoe, popular Baha'i author ABOUT THE BOOK: This book tells what it was like to be with the Hands of the Cause of God. It's full of stories about and experiences with the Hands of the Cause from the early sixties through the passing of the last Hand of the Cause, Dr. Ali-Muhammad Varqa in 2007. Stories include times with Ali-Akbar Furúqán, Ugo Giachery, Leroy Ioas, Dhikru Ali, Khádem, Amatu al-Bahá'í Ráfihiyyih Kháfi'num, Paul Haney, Agnes Alexander, Enoch Olinga, William Sears, John Robarts, John Ferraby, Collis Featherstone, Rahmatu al-Láfi'ih Muháfi'jir, and Abu-Qásim Faizi in places as far apart as London, England; Lagos, Nigeria; Douala, Cameroon; Haifa and Akka, Israel; Taipei, Taiwan;

Sydney, Australia; Palermo, Sicily; New York, Los Angeles, Wilmette and Honolulu in the U.S. The book is a gift to those who had the bounty of knowing the Hands of the Cause and a gift to those in the future who will want to inhale the spiritual fragrance of nearness to them. This memoir will inspire the reader by gaining insights into the devotion and exemplary worldwide services of the Hands as seen at conventions, conferences, commemorations and at the pioneer posts of the Bahá'í's. ABOUT THE AUTHOR: The author had the good fortune of working for two major world airlines which provided him with discounted and free plane tickets enabling him to attend Bahá'í events throughout the world during this wonderful period. The book includes gems from the mine of remembered times with the Hands. The lessons learned from the Hands of the Cause during those years provided him with valuable knowledge for teaching the Faith. These cherished memories of the Hands from over a period of almost four decades are a reservoir of personal moments and historical events.

Customer Reviews

Mostly of interest for people interested in the Baha'i Faith, and their friends and well-wishers. For a few brief decades a handful of individuals were appointed to assist the Baha'i communities all over the world. Their title was "the Hands of the Cause". Now that they have all passed into the Kingdom of Light (afterlife/heaven), there will never be any more. They were truly unique in every way. Far from being proud of this title, they were some of the most humble, endearing, supportive, and encouraging people ever. This book consists of very informal, diary-like entries of the author's personal experiences meeting several of them over a period of years. There are a couple of ways this book could be useful. For future historians looking into this faith, these informal sources can offer insights into the impact of these few individuals on an evolving world religion. For the rest of us, it is such a joy to experience these lovely, kind, cherished people once again. For both groups, there are some real gems consisting of the letters written to the author's family during a very dark time in their lives. Mr. Faizi makes it emphatically clear that God is primarily the Loving and the Most Merciful. That, for example, a failure to perform some beneficial task would never, ever cause harm to befall one's family. This is a lovely book, and I recommend it.

An insightful, easy to read book. The author tells about his personal experiences with Hands of the Cause of God. Hands that the author did not meet are not discussed.

This overview of an era in the evolution of the Baha'i Faith, is full of personal experiences and uplifting, memorable moments....that somehow DO make one feel the powerful, spiritual influence, wisdom, humor, and presence of the Hands of the Cause! I consider these words to be a "gift" for someone who was not able to meet the Hands of the Cause during their lifetimes!

Captured the sweet humillty and deeply spiritual power of the informal friendship some of the friends encountered with the Hands in their travels. Including some quotes from their talks would have would have added to my engagement in this lovely book.

Beautifully written, the book brought me much closer to these dear Hands that touch so many people's life with their love and wisdom. I have recommended the book to many friends and will be on my list of gifts for others. Thank you Michael Woodward.

This is not a book you read from cover to cover. It is more of a book where you pick a Hand of the Cause and read about them. But the common theme is love of Baha'u'llah, The Baha'i Faith, service and love for all mankind. Great read.

Did not want this book to end! Read stories in here that I had not read before in other books.

This is a great small book about these heroes of the Baha'i Faith.
